

COMMITTEE OF ONE HUNDRED HAS SELECTED

Democratic Candidates for Council in Each Ward Deemed Worthy of Support.

THE REPUBLICAN SELECTIONS

Will be Made at Another Meeting of the Committee on Next Thursday Evening.

The "Committee of One Hundred" met last night at the rooms of the board of trade in the Hub building, and decided upon Democratic candidates for council it deems worthy of support at the Democratic city primary election to-morrow. This does not mean that the committee endorses these men for election over Republicans, for the committee will on next Thursday evening recommend for support at the Republican primary election a like number of aspirants for council. The committee met in executive session, the representatives of the press being barred from admittance. The meeting opened at 8 o'clock and did not adjourn until 11:15. Chairman Henry M. Russell presided and Secretary C. J. Rawling was at the desk. After adjournment the following was given out to the press:

An Appeal to Democrats.

The "Committee of One Hundred" has carefully gone over the names of the men suggested at the Democratic suggestion meetings for council, and with no other object in view than the highest welfare of this city, call upon all good Democratic citizens to support the men named below for councilmen. We call upon Democrats who are in favor of good city government to rally at the coming Democratic primaries and do their best to nominate the men whom we have endorsed. In order to aid voters to easily determine the candidates whom we have endorsed, printed lists will be distributed to them when they come to the polls.

We do not intend by this selection to cast any reflection upon the many good men who have necessarily been left off this list, but our sole object is to concentrate our votes upon the required number in order to avoid scattering, and allowing the enemies of good government to defeat us by concentration on their part.

It was learned that the sub-committee on finance had raised a campaign fund aggregating between $200 and $300, and that a still larger sum is expected to be raised.

The sub-committee on pledges of candidates did not report, except that its work was incomplete, and a full report would be given at a later meeting.

The committee on campaign reported its work incomplete. It was stated by Chairman Russell that the committee would either issue a daily paper of its own during the municipal campaign, or take at advertising rates a half page in each of the daily papers of the city, if such an arrangement could be made with the publishers of the papers.

The committee on meetings and speakers has not yet begun its work.

..POLITICS..

Simultaneous with the "Committee of One Hundred" movement in Wheeling the two political parties are passing through an experience that shows very plainly that the "good people" themselves are largely at fault for the alleged poor quality of the councilmanic timber that comes before them for consideration—the refusal of good men to stand for council after they have been suggested. The situation from the Republican point of view in the Fourth ward this campaign is a striking exemplification. Seven of the fifteen men suggested for second branch have declined to run—M. Jeffers, C. B. Lemmon, Charles H. Loeffler, L. H. Knauss, A. L. Kelly, D. W. Nesbitt and Charles Miller. Not only that but both of the two men suggested for first branch have pulled off, and the city committee is now engaged on a hunt for somebody willing to run. While not meaning to say a word derogatory to the men who are still in the race for council in the Fourth, the present situation is indicative of the troubles the political parties encounter in their endeavors to have "good" men run for the city legislature. So long as the "good" men won't run for council, the "good" people cannot reasonably enter a howl that municipal government standards have deteriorated.

Not only have nine retired from the race in the Fourth ward, but there also are many withdrawals in other wards—nearly thirty altogether, and the Democrats are in precisely the same situation.

The Republican city committee meets Monday night to decide upon the printing of the ballots for the primary election of the Saturday following. The position of the names suggested on the tickets will be determined by lot.

The Democratic primary election will be held to-morrow. There are no contests except for council and wharfmaster. The nominees will be: Mayor—A. T. Sweeney. City Clerk—Fred H. Colmar. Chief of Police—John Ritz. Wharfmaster—Jeff Frame or Henry Bruner.

THE HISSOM TRIAL.

Defense Rests—Evidence in Rebuttal. Arguments to Begin.

Yesterday, in the Hissom case, the defense rested, after which the plaintiff offered evidence in rebuttal, and the defense came back with evidence in rebuttal. The arguments may begin this morning, though if it is ascertained that they cannot be finished this week they will be postponed until Monday morning.

The first witness for the defense yesterday morning was T. D. Bennett, chief of police, who testified that Mrs. J. R. Hissom came to him in December, 1898, to obtain police protection to prevent Sam K. Hissom from shooting his father.

Dr. S. K. Hissom was put on for further cross-examination, and testified that it was true that he had told his mother that J. R. Hissom might hit her and draw blood, and then become maddened and kill the entire family.

E. E. Walters, court stenographer, testified to certain matters upon which the plaintiff had testified at the first trial. Charles J. Schuck, one of the attorneys for the plaintiff, testified to conversation with Witten Hissom, down the river, which the latter had denied. George Maser, who was present when the conversation took place, testified that he did not hear what was said.

Ex-Chief of Police Robert McNichol testified that both J. R. Hissom and Mrs. Hissom had consulted him about entering divorce proceedings. A letter was sprung on the witness, in which he stated that he was about to make an affidavit, but that he did not wish to threaten Mr. Hissom.

Judge J. B. Briggs, of Ohio, and A. K. Conley, of Monroe county, Ohio, were put on the stand to impeach the reputation of J. R. Hissom for truth and veracity.

In rebuttal, the defendant called A. S. List, N. D. Garden, county commissioner of Monroe county, Ohio; S. L. Lemmon, Charles Lemmon, Theodore Fink and W. H. Colvig to testify as to Mr. Hissom's reputation.

Last Night's Lecture.

Last evening, at the A. O. U. hall, at the corner of Thirty-sixth and Jacob streets, the Rev. F. W. Peschke delivered an interesting lecture on the topic, "The Germans and Their Achievements in America." The lecture was given for the benefit of the new Second English Lutheran church, and a neat sum was realized. Rev. Peschke is a clear and forcible talker and he held his auditors attentively during his entertaining talk.

Pittsburgh River News.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 13.—The officers of the Ben Hur, which arrived this morning from Parkersburg, Va., reported the to-beat volunteer as being aground at Racoon, when she passed up early this morning. At the office of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company, owners of the volunteer, it was stated that the boat had grounded there, but that the particulars were not known.

There is a good stage of water in the Ohio river at that point, and just what caused the steamer to run aground puzzled the rivermen who heard of the accident. The river is falling, but every effort will be made to get the vessel afloat. It was the volunteer with which the Tom Dodswood collided two weeks ago.

Rivermen confidently expect a good shipping stage of water in the Ohio river before next Tuesday. Theodore Poe, the weather prophet of the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati packet line, is sending a bulletin to-day, predicting that by next Monday, Mr. Poe only makes predictions when the river is low. He is confident that there will be rain before forty-eight hours. There is plenty of coal in the Pittsburgh harbor, and by the first of the week, there will be a large number of boats in port prepared to move the product. A number will have reached Pittsburgh before Monday. All of them have large tows of empties.

AMUSEMENTS.

A new and lively French farce "The Girl from Maxim's," which one New York critic described as the "most fascinating thing that ever came down the theatrical pike" will be presented at the Opera House to-night for the first time in Wheeling. This play ran at the Criterion Theatre, New York, for 150 nights to crowded houses. It is said to be one of the funniest farces that has ever been interpreted by the excellent company that has it in hand. The production will be exactly the same as that seen at the Criterion in New York. "The Girl from Maxim's" tells how a reputable physician, who has been loyal to his home firstside all his life, takes a night off at last and tries to be a sport. He goes out with the boys and during the evening lands in Maxim's cafe, a famous Paris place and music hall, much frequented by Americans. While there he drinks too much champagne and the next thing he knows he awakens in his own home the next morning, asleep under an overturned sofa. Friends who drop in to see how he is getting along, hear a woman's voice from behind the curtains and investigation discloses that a young woman is there. The physician does not know who she is or how she got there. She explains, however, that she is from Maxim's and that she accompanied the physician home the night before. The physician's wife carries off the girl's dress under the impression that it is a present for her, and the physician's uncle mistakes her for his nephew's wife and invites her to spend some time at his villa. She accepts the invitation and by teaching the sedate ladies she meets to high kick and to sing naughty songs, telling them that she is introducing them to the latest fads in Paris's best society, she lays the foundation for a lot of trouble for all hands except herself. The physician is kept in hot water between his real wife and the pseudo article and there are lively and exciting times until the complications are straightened out and the original equanimity of the characters is restored.

Lulu Glasser has made a solid success in New York as a star in "Sweet Annie Page," a new comic opera by Louis De Lange, Edgar Smith and W. H. Neidinger. As the heroine in this work she is a delightful embodiment of mirth, melody and beauty. Her impersonation is sweet, winsome, vivacious and effervescent. What more can be said in praise of this popular young artist. The opera is full of tureful music composed around an exceedingly clever story. There are no dull moments. "Sweet Annie Page" is a go. On the opening night Miss Glasser received nineteen rousing encores.

Nat Goodwin. Nat Goodwin is said to prophesy a success for Madeleine Lucette Ryley's play "Richard Savage," in which Henry Miller is soon to appear. He held the play himself for a long time and his only reason for surrendering it was because he did not wish to present any play in which his wife, Maxine Elliott did not have equally good opportunity as himself. He has reason to have faith in the author as it was her play, "An American Citizen," that did much to bring about his present commercial value as a star.

Chauncey Oleott. Chauncey Oleott has just closed a two weeks' engagement in Brooklyn which in point of attendance has beaten all records of the Bijou Theatre in that borough of Greater New York. "Ma-vournee" was presented at every performance and from the first night people were turned away unable to secure seats or standing room. It was a busy fortnight for the popular comedian, for between performances he rehearsed "Garrett O'Magh," the new romantic play which has been written for him by his manager Augustus Pitou.

A GIGANTIC SCHEME BEING CONSIDERED

By Wheeling Business Men, and Something May Result in the Near Future.

CUTTING DOWN OF THE HILL

And Covering Up Wheeling Creek Would Give 400 Acres Valued at $4,000,000.

The other evening, after the meeting of the board of trade, two well known Wheeling manufacturers were discussing fields of usefulness for the new organization, and one of the pair recalled a scheme of the late D. M. Carey, of the firm of Paige, Carey & Co., builders of the Main street stone bridge, whose untimely death cut short a career of great promise.

"Mr. Carey came to me," said the manufacturer, "and talked with great enthusiasm on his scheme, which was nothing more or less than the partial leveling of Wheeling hill, the building of a tunnel along Wheeling creek within the city limits, and the filling in of the creek from bank to bank with the dirt and stone that would come off the hill-top. He had worked out the project in all its details, and said he was positive it was practical. The cost, he had estimated after careful consideration, would be about $2,000,000, and he believed the money could be secured on bonds in New York. First it would be necessary to form a company, then go before the legislature and secure legislation that would enable the company to condemn land on the hill-top, as well as to secure a title for the creek-bottom land. He estimated that altogether 400 acres would be reclaimed on hill-top and creek-bottom, which he estimated would be worth $10,000 an acre, or $4,000,000, thus giving a profit of $2,000,000."

The gentleman to whom the manufacturer spoke, responded to the above with the remark:

"Well, let's get up the company and see what we can do." So far nothing has been done, but if the project was considered feasible in 1891, it is, if anything, more feasible now when the board of trade is about to enter upon its campaign for the Greater Wheeling.

The tunnel Mr. Carey had in view is certainly practicable, as the Riverside people are doing exactly the same thing to-day along Boggs' run.
